Birthday Celebration 2018

If you attended the Birthday Luncheon at Everett Community College on Saturday, Feb. 17th, the South Unit hoped you enjoyed it. From speakers to entertainment, from honoring to learning, the day went smoothly. The Wilderness Room is a great location at the college, with its many windows, spacious setting, and media set-up.

President Pat Fogarty-Cramer began the gala with honoring those great colleagues before us - some whom we were lucky to have with us at the event. She introduced our entertainer, Rachel McClinton, who hails from Living Voices, a non-profit educational company from Seattle. They are known for their high quality actors who bring life to history.

She introduced our entertainer, Rachel McClinton, who hails from Living Voices, a non-profit educational company from Seattle. They are known for their high quality actors who bring life to history. Rachel used multimedia to show vintage film, history and maps to explain the 98 years of our women's suffrage movement. Most compelling was her acting as a young suffragette, whose parents were initially unhappy with her enthusiastic ways. The audience of 60 seemed to be spellbound by her dynamic performance, as she switched costumes and hats seamlessly.

Following the Question & Answer session, a lunch buffet was provided by our local Lombardi's Italian Restaurant. There was plenty of pasta and salad, but we ran out of hot water and coffee on this rainy day. (The room our caterer planned to use to obtain water was locked.) There's always a detail that can not be foreseen. The dessert table soothed most members and guests.

Pat Fogarty-Cramer next asked M.J. Creamer to honor this year's Democracy in Action award winner. M.J. gave a passionate summary of the work of a well-deserving community activist, Jackie Michew. He is best known for his constant efforts to work for those not represented in local government in his Lowell neighborhood. He continues to promote districting, to increase climate change momentum and to make efforts to cut back on fossil fuels. The winning table took the flower centerpieces home. Many thanks to all those in the South Unit and beyond who helped us make this fun event a success.

LWVSC Central Unit did not meet in February 2018, because of LWV birthday celebration on February 17th. Due to Everett Main Library Conference room being unavailable in March, LWVSC

Snohomish County Homeless Policy Task Force meeting

February 8, at United Way

The meeting was information filled starting with the author of Nothing for Nothing, a memoir by Rebekah Demirel who trafficked on the streets in SE Vancouver at the age of 13. The theme of her book is transformation through trauma and she is currently running healing workshops and an acupuncture practice. Three such workshops are "Taming the Dragon of Stress", "Care without Carrying", and "The Heart is King" - a workshop directed at emergency personnel as an adjunct to CPR/BLS training for those looking for a spiritual approach to stress management. She cited two resources that influenced her thinking; In the Realm of Hungry Ghosts by Gabor Mate - about the first needle exchange program in Vancouver, and Why Zebras Don't Get Ulcers, by Robert M. Sapolsky - a discussion of the role of chronic stress in healers. Some of her theory can be found on the Facebook page titled "Outside City Hall" with postings about homelessness.

In April, Jim Dean of Interfaith will be presenting an outreach from the Everett Faith in Action group titled "Who is my Neighbor". The goal of the presentation will be to bring programs and resources to the general public and to try and break down stereotypes in the community. The venue has not yet been determined. Recommended reading for the event is Souls in the Hands of a Tender God, a good reference for standing side by side with those who are challenged and it includes worldwide examples. Everett Faith in Action also recommended an upcoming workshop at Seattle University Law Center for churches on how to use their land for charitable use like running programs for the homeless without legal hazards. The Snohomish County Carnegie Center project informed us about their diversion program which will include navigators, social workers, and a variety of services for those at risk of incarceration or of reoffending.

Elysa Hovard, from Cocoon House presented results of a survey of needs from those who serve the homeless. All survey participants agreed that they are in need of a central information location that would include resources and a schedule of trainings to meet the gaps in Snohomish County. A website would be a great spot for such information.

Point in Time (PIT) data collection and Partnership to End Homelessness provided updates on the status of the counts, many participants believe the numbers are low. One factor suggested for lower counts included an effort by law enforcement to clear out camps in east Snohomish County and Forest Park less than a week before the count date. Another possible rationale might be that homeless persons are skittish about self-reporting due to some perceived threat and they have to give their consent to be reported. Plus, the rain was very heavy prior to the count as reported by one homeless person and this affects the numbers on the streets. "We can always find a spot to hide out when it's raining that heavily." In addition, the count hours were between 8:00 AM and 7:00 PM so overnight persons were not included. HUD, House an Urban Development reports that the PIT numbers for Snohomish County will probably not be out until after King County numbers which are due in May.

One of the homeless advocates, Mike, spoke passionately about the human impact of homeless location sweeps. He relayed that personal belongings are taken out of the camps including tents, blankets, sleeping bags, and coats, and are thrown into the landfills. He shared the sense of futility felt by both the homeless and those who make the donations.

Winter lingers on and most of us are looking for the first signs of spring and the cheer of a bright new season. Our work at league continues no matter what the season and we keep busy throughout the year with many projects to educate ourselves and the public as well, to advocate for legislation at all levels of government and to observe the meetings of elected officials. I am truly amazed at your enthusiasm and dedication to the commitments that we have in the community. We are hoping that each of you has found a committee that suits your interests, if not please let us know and we will link you to the right group. If you have not attended a Unit Meeting I urge you to make an effort to do so. The schedule for the Unit Meetings are listed on page one of the Voter and on the website's calendar page. Each unit has a unique personality and focus, and all provide opportunities to meet new friends. The Unit leaders work hard to develop interesting agendas and to address local issues. The units do more than just their local meetings, several years ago we developed a schedule for the units to host our two luncheon meetings, the birthday for league in February and the Annual meeting in May. This year the South Unit hosted a great birthday party complete with entertainment and games. The leaders of the South Unit, Rita Ireland and Kate Lunceford are due special praise for their great effort.

There are many opportunities awaiting you to join a committee and attend a Unit meeting. Or join us for one of the upcoming general meetings. We look forward to your input at these meetings, so please come and join the discussion.

Welcome New Members!

Greta Kaas-Lent

Greta had two careers, one in the Washington Social and Health Services Dept. and the second as Director of the WorkSource Office. She enjoys travel. Her interest in informing voters and getting out the vote led her to the LWV. She plans to attend the Central Unit.

Annelisa Schneider

Annelisa is a retired music/theater teacher and director/trainer for family support programs in Maine and Massachusetts, with a focus on incarcerated parents. She and her husband recently moved to Edmonds from Oregon to be close to family. She is especially interested in LWV voter rights and registration activities.

Districting Committee Meeting

From the LWVSC-Districting Committee: We hosted an educational forum on Redistricting: Why it matters presented by: Alison McCaffree, Director, Politics of the Possible in Action; February 21, 2018, 1:30PM to 3:30PM, Everett Library (Main Branch); in attendance ~10+.

Ms. McCaffree took us through aspects of Understanding Redistricting Basics, Gerrymandering, Elections and Advocacy for Change. Each subject could have taken about two hours. However, presenter was able to convey the meanings in a compact, intelligent manner that reached her audience. In addition, Alison included questions (lots) from the attendees to help us catchup to the very complicated process of redistricting at the State and National Level.

Alison is presenting her talk at leagues across the state. Her grandmother, Representative Mary Ellen McCaffree, helped plan the 1965 redistricting bill in the State of Washington with the following philosophy:

- Maintain Legislative and Party Leadership
 - Approximately 1/3 safe Democratic districts
 - Approximately 1/3 safe Republican districts
 - Encourage fresh ideas & require parties to recruit good new candidates
- 1/3 swing districts

We recommend this very informative presentation on redistricting.

Voter Service Committee Report

Those of us who got to attend the meeting March first with our Snohomish County Elections and Voter Registration folks were, as always, VERY impressed with what is being done to secure voting in Snohomish County. At our meeting we learned that Elections and Voter Registration is updating its website and we will get a first look at the new site at our June Voter Service committee meeting. In March we will have an overview of our own website from Mary Ross then Duncan Clausen of Elections and Voter Registration will give us a deeper look at the on Line Voter Registration Site MyVote. The committee continues work on registration at Community Colleges and is exploring connections at Public Schools, creating a test voting activity for children who come to our registration tables, updating and improving the binders we created for Voter Registration Events, continuing and strengthening our Snohomish County coalition for forums, planning a best practices for registration training, T-shirts and potentially bags.

We would love to have you join our committee.

With the rapidly changing landscape of events planned in response to recent school shootings the committee encourages all members to remain aware of local events.

To find local events -

As per LWVSC President Pat Fogarty-Cramer from our National LWV President Chris Cole:

If you or your local Leagues know of upcoming student marches or other action in your area, we hope you'll consider setting up complementary voter registration drives - either in-person or online - and connect with partners on the ground to see how else the League can get involved.

AND

It's up to each League board - state/local/national - to determine whether to be an official sponsor, just march as a group, or not participate.

Civil Discourse News

Attendance: Karen Madsen, Barbara Eklund, Pat Fogarty-Cramer, Janet Robertson and Joan Smith

At the February 20th, 10 AM Meeting at the Red Cup in Mukilteo, Joan Smith, Chair, began with an anagram on RESPECT. She shared findings on concurrence. Once Civil Discourse is accepted as Program, the committee would meet with each of the units to see if they agree with the work and statement of LWV of San Luis Obispo and approve adding it to LWVSC's position on Civic Participation: "Promote civil discourse through action and education for all government bodies, staff, and citizens for the purpose of improved public policy decisions and processes. Civil discourse means, at a minimum, mutually respectful, courteous, constructive, and orderly communication." Barbara Eklund related meeting with Jarod Grant, Director of Diversity and Equity at Everett Community College. She and Jody Trautwein determined that the college is willing to host a forum on civil discourse and publicize the event. He prefers evenings for the parking and to provide an activity for resident students. Jody asked about opportunities to coordinate Voter Registration. Jarod is positive about each. Dates considered were October 23rd or October 24th. Bob Drewel may act as Facilitator again. Barbara will arrange another meeting with Jarod Grant.

The goal of this forum is to have minority panelists describe the impact of civil discourse or lack thereof on his/her unique experience. The committee would select 4 minorities with an adult and student to speak. Some possibilities include Native American, Black, Latino, Asian and/or GLBT. Committee members will brainstorm questions for panelists. Karen will prepare introductory and concluding remarks with a Call to Action activity. To keep the Civil Discourse topic current, Karen suggested a spring forum as a Community Conversation to be held on a Sunday afternoon at Everett Public Library. Jacqueline Styra of the Dispute Resolution Center has agreed to speak. Suggested dates were April 8th and 29th, 2 PM. Barbara Eklund will contact the head librarian Abigail Cooley to coordinate the date. A followup forum may travel to Snohomish Library. In addition, Janet Robertson suggested some Civil Discourse topics might fit with the Parliamentary Procedure Committee's work.

Next meeting: March 20th, 2018, 11 AM at The Pointe at Harbour Pointe Country Club in Mukilteo, 11817 Harbour Pointe Blvd., Mukilteo.

Chuck Smith helped introduce us to the Snohomish County Planning Department (PDS) interactive maps on the web. It was noted that while these tools are available to the public they are used for the most part by government and the building industry to make changes in the county. We concurred that it would be useful to pressure the county to promote use of this tool to the public.

At this site <https://snohomishcountywa.gov/1279/PDS-GIS> the public can zoom in on areas, neighborhoods and parcels. One can find information on ownership and tax records by zooming down to an address point, clicking on it and then on to "Run Property Report". The map also has layers of other information that can be selected in the bottom of the left side bar under "Layers".

Layers that may be selected are:

- Address Points
- Administrative Boundaries
- Administrative Districts
- Parcel Labels
- Road Labels for Aerial Imagery
- Critical Area Plans
- Public Land Survey System Area
- Topography Contour Lines

- Parcels
- Aerial Imagery
- USGS Topographic Maps
- LIDAR Bare Environments
- LIDAR Built Environments
- Shaded Relief Imagery
- Elevation (Digital Elevation Model)
- Snowload (lbs./sq. ft.)
- Steep Slopes
- Base Maps

Joan and Chuck gave an example in their area of using the LIDAR Environments to find a previously unknown ravine landfill that is now experiencing slides. The GIS map can be of use to citizens, and homeowners associations to get information on landslides, unlawful tree cutting or construction outside of property lines.

Public Works has presented several open houses around the county to highlight the need for a rate increase. Most systems are 35 years old and are handling 25% more rainfall. They have been doing inspections and repairs but are using reserves to cover the cost. While some argue that increased population brings a broader tax base the taxes don't cover the cost of new infrastructure and upgrades needed to protect the county waters. There is debate about whether the cost should be borne by taxpayers or developers.

Members discussed how LWV-SC can advocate in the county for issues around government policy. Tia cautioned that GMA and land use issues are complicated and don't have consensus within the League. She offered to bring a review of the Transfer of Development Rights Bank under consideration by the county to the next meeting.

We discussed presenting an updated climate change forum next year. We might partner with other local groups to revisit sea rise near our railroad tracks, low-impact development, tree canopy and the transfer of development rights tool to help guide good government policy during this rapid population growth.

Lynn Lichtenberg and Rita Ireland attended a meeting about the Climate Impact Tool that incorporates a wealth of climate map data of Snohomish County that can be applied to make better decisions. Snohomish County Public Works is looking for ways to budget $50K to educate the public about the tool. They need pressure from the public to make broader use of it in policy decisions.

Next meeting: April 6, 2018 at 10:00 am at the Lynnwood Library-guest speaker: Ann Aagaard-LWVWA Issue Chair for Shoreline, Wetlands & Land Use. She will discuss the Rucklehaus Center's comprehensive and collaborative process designed to look at the Growth Management Act.

2018 TRY!

One of our key projects each year is the production of the brochure They Represent You (TRY), a listing of all elected officials who represent the citizens of Snohomish County. This is our signature publication we do this as a service to the public and for use to promote the league. Stalwarts of the TRY committee are Judy Chapman, Lynn Carpenter and Leah Bernstein they assure each year that the information is updated and verified and then coordinate the publishing and distribution. This is a super team that does this work each year and provides us with this publication that we share with the community.

We are in the process of distributing them county wide to libraries, senior centers, post offices, city halls, county offices, civic organizations and community centers. In addition the complete brochure is posted on our web site www.lwvsnoho and is updated as needed. Also we are happy that a new feature, hyperlinks has been added to the online edition that is enabled when clicking on a website. This feature will then send you direct to the website.

We count on donations from our members and we remind you that the donations are made to the Education Fund and are tax deductible. We also encourage you to take advantage of Matching Funds programs that you have as an employee or retiree. Send your donations for the TRY to Judy Chapman.

LWVSC Board Updates Nonpartisan Policy

After extensive research and discussion, at our February meeting the LWVSC Board adopted a new nonpartisan policy. The new policy underscores the nonpartisan, yet political, nature of our organization and clarifies what members of the League, members of the League board of directors and specific officers of the League must do in order to maintain the nonpartisan nature of the organization.

This new policy is available on the League website, lwvsnoho.org, under the members' section and is printed below.

Anyone with questions about this policy should feel free to contact Karen Madsen at madsenkp@gmail.com.

League of Women Voters of Snohomish County

The League of Women Voters of Snohomish County (LWVSC) is a nonpartisan political organization that encourages informed and active participation in government, works to increase understanding of major public policy issues and, after member study and agreement, works to influence public policy through education and advocacy. Though the League is nonpartisan in that it does not support or oppose any political party or candidate for public office, it is political in that it promotes League-supported public policy issues.

The League believes that political parties are essential to our system of government and participation of informed citizens is beneficial to the parties and to the system. Consequently, the League encourages its members as individuals to be active in the political parties, in finding and supporting candidates for public office and in seeking election to public office.

The LWVSC believes that some basic limitations on board members' political activity, while serving in this capacity, are necessary to protect the nonpartisanship of the League.

Nonpartisan Policy

League membership lists, newsletters and other publications shall not be used to support any political party or candidate for office. The board must give prior permission for any non-League petitions circulated at League functions.

LWVSC members

Every member must take the responsibility for clearly differentiating between her/his personal opinions and League positions. League members cannot do the following two things simultaneously: (1) Publicly claim League membership; and (2) publicly speak or act against League positions or support or oppose any political party or candidate. League members not speaking for the League should identify themselves as individuals, without saying they are members of the League. Members may speak or act in the name of the LWVSC only when authorized to do so by the president or executive committee.

Board members

Other than the presidents, voter service chair and action chair, members of the board of directors of the LWVSC may:

- run for nonpartisan office;
- participate in political campaigns and endorse candidates for local, state and national office;
- serve as precinct committee officer and attend precinct caucuses and partisan club meetings; and
- serve on non-elected public boards, commissions, committees or coalitions.

Because they are the public face of the League, members of the board of directors of the LWVSC may not:

- run for partisan office;
- chair a political campaign;
- serve in any position in a political party above precinct committee officer; or
- identify her/himself as a member of the LWVSC when indicating her/his political affiliations or candidate preferences at any level of government in the media, including on social networking sites or other public venues.

President, immediate past president, president-elect, voter service chair and action chair

These officers may not:

- run for or hold public elected office;
- serve in any capacity as part of a political party; or

• undertake any action that will cause them to be identified publicly as supporting any political party or candidate for office, e.g., endorsing candidates, attending fundraisers, working on campaigns, posting candidate signs, or making political contributions.

Transportation Committee News

The Transportation Committee of LWVSC meets at 10:00 a.m. on the first Wednesday of each month at the Lynnwood Library. This is reflected in the wide variety of interests and pursuits that the Committee is currently undertaking:

- Impact of oil trains and coal trains, especially in western Washington
- Efficacy of express toll lanes on I-405
- History and development of Sound Transit
- Puget Sound Regional Council
- Efficacy of Everett Transit/Community Transit

Our sources of information include websites of many agencies, print media, case law, archival repositories, personal contacts in State departments and agencies, and attendance at many meetings.

Our recent and current activities include sponsoring informational forums, making presentations to municipal boards, talking to legislators about transportation issues, and analyzing I-405 traffic data from the WSDOT website.

On April 18, 2018, at the Lynnwood Library, the committee will present an informational forum at 6:30 p.m. on some aspects of the performance of Sound Transit. LWVSC Board Adopts Policy on Committees

Have you been wondering how to get involved with the Snohomish County League or how to get an idea started in our League? The LWVSC Board thinks you should form a committee.

A team consisting of Pat Fogarty-Cramer, Joan Smith, Stephanie Woerfel, Tia Peycheff and Karen Madsen met last month to consider how to make best use of committees in our League. The outcome of that meeting was a proposed policy on committees which was subsequently adopted at the March Board meeting. It is printed below. Please read through the policy to see how you might engage with the League, and please note expectations for existing committees which have always been in place but are now formalized.

This new policy is available on the League website, lwvsnoho.org, under the members' section and is printed below.

Questions? Contact Karen Madsen at madsenkp@gmail.com.

Policy on Committees in LWVSC

Background:

- It is unclear to new members (and some veteran members) how a member can go about engaging with our League on a topic which is not covered by a current League committee.

- The board of directors is sometimes asked to approve activities proposed by a member which do not cleanly fit into current program or into any currently active committee.

- Occasionally topics arise abruptly which should be addressed in a timely fashion but which have no home in current program or any currently active committee.

Policy on Committees

A member desiring to put on a League activity or study an issue with other League members should form a committee of at least two current League members.

Those members should contact the president and schedule a time to ask the board of directors for approval for the League committee to form.

The proposed activity or area of study must address at least one League position at the local, state or national League level.

Once approved by the board, the committee should be advertised to the membership through an article in the next edition of the Voter.

All LWVSC committees should:

- Have an up-to-date statement on the website describing their activities, name a person who can be contacted for more information about the committee and give information about times and locations of meetings
- Advertise meeting times and locations in each edition of the Voter
- Regularly update the board of directors about their meetings and activities either through a written report, attendance at a board meeting, or report about the committee by a board member who is active with the committee
- Consult with the president before scheduling any committee activity which involves members in addition to committee members to avoid conflict with other League activities.
- Periodically summarize the activities of the committee in a Voter article which invites members to join
- Prepare an annual update and summary of activities of the committee for the May and/or summer edition of the Voter.
